

Annual Inventory Sale of USED PIANOS

Sales of used Pianos at the Walter D. Moses Company are different—radically different from the sales of second-hand Pianos elsewhere. The instruments are in many instances almost good as new, and all have been thoroughly overhauled and rebuilt. They represent unusual values—an opportunity which you cannot afford to overlook.

News of Petersburg

The Times-Dispatch Bureau,
5 Bollingbrook Street,
Petersburg, Va., May 12, 1913.

Louise, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sandford, residing on Grove Avenue, was very painfully burned yesterday afternoon. Coming down stairs with some matches in her hand, she went out into the alley adjoining the house and lit one of them. In doing so she set fire to her clothing. Her screams brought her father to her rescue. He found the little girl's clothes ablaze, and he had the presence of mind to place his hand over her mouth to prevent the inhaling of the flames, and then he succeeded in doing, while beating out the fire in the clothing with the other. The child was severely burned about the hands, arms and chest, but was saved from fatal injury.

The New Presbyterian Church.
Twenty-three persons were enrolled by certificate and one by baptism as charter members of the new Presbyterian Church organized yesterday afternoon, twenty of whom came from the Second Presbyterian Church. After the organization it was decided to defer the election of officers and the naming of the church until Sunday, May 25, to which time the commission adjourned.

Illicit Liquor Selling.
In the Police Court this morning Mary Cousins and her brother, William Cousins, were convicted of conducting a blind tiger at their home on Lavender Lane, and were each fined $100 and given a jail sentence. It came to the knowledge of the police that liquor was being secretly dispensed at this house, and they made a raid on it, capturing the proprietors and a quantity of liquor and glasses. No excuses could prevail with the court in the face of the evidence given.

Death of Old Citizen.
J. Edward Livesey, a retired lumber merchant, and a much respected citizen, died yesterday at his residence on Liberty Street. He had been a resident of Petersburg for about thirteen years, was sixty-six years old, and is survived by his wife and nine children—Benjamin F., of Washington; Louis E., of Reno, Nev.; Mrs. J. P. Weiss and Mrs. W. P. Stuhlin, of Emporia; and John D. Robert W., H. L., and Misses Lucy and Emma Livesey, of Petersburg.

Mrs. Lucy Adams, aged thirty-two years, wife of W. B. Adams, died last night at her home on Main Street, Blandford. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lufsey, and five sisters, and by her husband and four children—two boys and two girls.

For Playgrounds.
Under the auspices of the Petersburg Education Association and the Teachers' Association, a public meeting will be held in the auditorium of Jackson School to-morrow night, in the interest of the establishment of municipal playgrounds. The interest in this matter has rapidly spread since the recent Recreation Congress in Richmond, a number of whose members visited Petersburg, viewed locations here, and gave valuable suggestions. There are several splendid recreation sites in the city, and some definite action will doubtless be taken by the meeting to-morrow night.

Baptist Sunday School Association.
The regular meeting of the Baptist Sunday School Association of this city and vicinity was held with the Baptist Church in Matocca yesterday afternoon. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. J. W. Cunniff, of the City of New York, and the Rev. J. C. Dunford, of the City of Richmond. Reports from the various schools showed for the past month an aggregate average enrollment of 2,077; average attendance, 1,797; percent of attendance, 86.1-2; new scholars, 55; conversions, 45; collections, $234.

TO EXERCISE HIS OWN JUDGMENT

Tresnon Ordered, However, to Value Purchases Made by Standard Oil.

COMPANY GETS MANDAMUS

Litigation Outgrowth of Tax Investigation Recently Made by Grand Jury.

With a qualifying clause which takes away much of the value of its legal victory, the Standard Oil Company received yesterday a mandamus from Judge H. C. Carter, Scott in the City Circuit Court, directing Commissioner of the Revenue Henry E. Tresnon to value the purchases of that company for the purpose of issuing to it an annual license. Judge Scott added to the formal mandamus order the note: "But nothing in this order is meant to prevent the Commissioner of the Revenue from exercising his own judgment in coming to a conclusion as to what the amount of goods actually bought were."

Outgrowth of Tax Inquiry.
The issue is an outgrowth of the recent grand jury investigation of tax matters. Commissioner of the Revenue Tresnon holds that the local office of the Standard Oil Company must pay a license tax based on the amount of its purchases, and in this position he was upheld by the grand jury. That issue is now pending a final determination, and will not be appealed, no matter how it is decided, as several intricate points of law are involved. The local office of the Standard Oil Company admits purchases during the past year of $10,000. As a matter of fact, it did a business of about $250,000, but claims that the difference was merely goods shipped here from other agencies, or from the general headquarters of the company, and was not "goods bought" within the intent of the law.

Contention as to License.
In making the license tax assessment for 1913, which is based on the volume of purchases, the same contention arose. Mr. Tresnon was willing to issue licenses based on the total amount of business done. The Standard Oil Company wanted its license tax based only on its net purchases, which, on its own statement, amounted to but a small proportion of its local business. Through Munford, Hunt, Williams & Anderson, the Standard Oil Company applied to the City Circuit Court yesterday for a mandamus, compelling the Commissioner of the Revenue to issue the license, and the case was argued at length by Mr. Hunt and Mr. Williams for the company, and Attorney-General Williams for the State. Mr. Hunt contended that his client was not attempting to evade the law, but to get to the heart of the matter, and to the fact that the tax was based on the true state of its business, but that it would maintain to the last its contention that supplies sent here from other branches of the same concern were purchases, and were not taxable as purchases.

Attorney-General Williams held that all shipments from other branches were purchases within the meaning of the law, and for the purposes of taxing other branches. The latter was the subject of some discussion in the lobby yesterday, and the placing of harness and saddlery on the free list was termed by some of the delegates as "crime," and spoken of even more harshly by others. The harnessmakers claim that it will throw the United States open to competition from Canada, while they are excluded from that country by a high and valuable tariff, and the price of hides is climbing every day. Henry Otter, secretary of the Wholesale Saddlery Association, stated that the convention would probably take some action, and a friendly feeling for everything, except automobiles and the Democratic free list.

Mandamus Order Entered.
Late in the afternoon Judge Scott directed the clerk to issue a mandamus order to compel Commissioner Tresnon to ascertain the amount of goods actually bought by the Standard Oil Company during the twelve months preceding April 1, in order that the Standard Oil Company may apply for a license to transact the business of a merchant in this city. Later a message was received from Attorney-General Williams that the Standard Oil Company had agreed to the order, and that the order would be heard, and it is possible that proceedings will be had to-day to further amend or modify the court order.

It was the belief of those at the court session that the addition of the clause providing that nothing in the order was meant to prevent the Commissioner of the Revenue from exercising his own judgment in coming to a conclusion as to what "the amount of goods actually bought" were made the order a practical victory for Commissioner Tresnon, as in his answer to the bill filed by the Standard Oil Company he had offered to do that very thing. In other words, it instructs him to make an assessment as he construes the law as the basis for the annual merchants' license, and does not limit him to the statement of actual purchases conceded to have been made by the Standard Oil Company from other parties than its own agencies in the conduct of its local business.

Both Go to Jail.
Joseph Meekins, colored, charged with grand larceny, was tried yesterday in the Hustings Court and acquitted. He was charged with the larceny of a horse named "Meekins" and a dog named "Richard" from the home of James Chenault, charged with selling liquor from a bottle on the Sabbath day and with not having a required bond in the sum of $200 for twelve months, in default of which he would go to jail.

BUILDING BRAINY MEN

Perhaps you can't build brains with food alone—but a food that supplies, in digestible form, every element needed to build a perfect human body must help some—and that's the reason, no doubt, that cereals have taken the place of desserts in the students' dining hall at Harvard University. The food to study on, to work on, to grow on, is

SADDLERS OPPOSE TARIFF REFORM

Representatives of Three Organizations Devoted to Harness Business Convene To-Day.

TO HANDLE BIG PROGRAM

All of the Delegates and Their Guests Will Go Down James River To-Morrow.

Words that would burn the ears of President Wilson and the Democratic leaders in the House and Senate are to be heard in the lobby and galleries of the Jefferson Hotel, where 500 men, delegates to the tariff reform convention, are gathered as the representatives of three large organizations devoted to the harness and saddlery business. The event is largely a social one, and the delegates are expected to be friendly and to discuss in the lobby yesterday, and the placing of harness and saddlery on the free list was termed by some of the delegates as "crime," and spoken of even more harshly by others. The harnessmakers claim that it will throw the United States open to competition from Canada, while they are excluded from that country by a high and valuable tariff, and the price of hides is climbing every day. Henry Otter, secretary of the Wholesale Saddlery Association, stated that the convention would probably take some action, and a friendly feeling for everything, except automobiles and the Democratic free list.

The other two organizations represented in this mass-meeting of harness-makers are the National Saddlery Manufacturers' Association and the Associated Manufacturers of Saddlery Accessories. In addition to about five hundred delegates from these associations, there is a large assortment of tanners, hide dealers, bucklemakers, threadmakers and makers of harness materials. In fact, every step in the making of every detail of everything that a horse can wear is represented, and in addition, there are some twelve or fifteen editors of trade journals devoted to the saddle business.

Joint Session To-Day.
The three organizations will go into a joint session at 9:30 o'clock this morning, which will be open to the public. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor George Ainslie and President T. M. Carrington, of the Chamber of Commerce. The responses will be made by John M. Gray, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn., and Edward E. Fisher, president of the Wholesale Saddlery Association. The different organizations will hold their executive meetings separately. That of the Associated Manufacturers of Saddlery Accessories will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock; the Wholesale Saddlery Association will meet Thursday morning, and the National Saddlery Manufacturers' Association, Thursday afternoon and Friday morning. These sessions will be devoted to the routine business of the associations and to the technical side of the saddlery business.

An especially attractive feature of the convention is the presence of many women, who do not attend every annual gathering of these associations, but who have come to Richmond several hundred strong. In their honor, an especially elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged by a committee on convention arrangements, of which J. T. Palmatary is chairman, and the women's entertainment committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Christian Clarke.

The women of the local entertainment committee will receive the visiting women at the Jefferson immediately after the adjournment of the opening session this morning. This evening at 7:30 o'clock the Wholesale Saddlery Association will entertain the members and guests of the other two associations in the auditorium of the Jefferson Hotel at an informal reception. A buffet supper will be served, and will be followed by dancing. The feature of the entertainment program will be a trip down the James River to-morrow, in which all three of the organizations will participate. The entire day will be devoted to the excursion, and the party will visit all points of historical interest.
